What's New In Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.5)?

Pages Saturday, October 24, 2009 For a few extra minutes of sleep before school I was showing my oldest daughter a trick I learned a few years ago and she was having a grand time trying to figure out how I did it. She asked me to guess how she was going to accomplish this in 2 minutes. I was sorely tempted to tell her but she won't remember. The secret was to take a 5 minute snooze and then immediately wake back up. Usually I am so tired that I lay there snoring for another minute or two. This is usually enough to wake me up and I'm good to go. Unfortunately on this particular day I found myself too tired to even consider a 5 minute snooze. So I did the best I could. I didn't even want to open my eyes and I stayed still. Amazingly, she was asleep again about 10 seconds later. "I need you to be in bed 30 minutes before you actually go to sleep". I said. "This is what I need to do". She gave me a look that said, "Right..." and went upstairs. 30 minutes later I woke up refreshed, and I was ready for a fun, early morning. I sat down for a very short trip down memory lane. I remember you telling us about your overnight job. I remember having to rush home from middle school gymnastics practice to get to music class before your bedtime. I remember trying to get home from having friends over to spend the night and knowing I was going to be dead tired. I remember trying to think of something to tell your mom so that she didn't freak out when she saw your face and could possibly tell that you had been up all night. I remember my birthday party when you were six or seven and I had you call everyone I knew and ask them to meet me at the party venue. I remember you saying, "Okay..." and everyone showing up. I remember so many things, but really only some things. I remember a lot of things, but they are the things that I am especially proud of. I remember you figuring out how to get your lacing on your shoes so that they would be tight but not too tight. I remember playing Tetris while you slept in my lap and our game moving at lightning speed. I remember helping you to fold the laundry and what it felt like when you fell asleep and I leaned over to gently place your head on the table in the kitchen and you were out for the
